Workshop for Families of Children with Special Needs

Thursday, April 15, 2010

4:30 PM – 6:00 PM

William & Mary Law School, Room 124

Parents Engaged for Learning Equality (PELE) will host a free workshop for families of children who have special needs.

The workshop will include presentations by law students involved in the Law School's Special Education Advocacy Clinic.

The workshop will address: parental roles in the IEP process, standards of learning and VGLA, behavior intervention plans, placement, restraint and least restrictive environments, extended school year services, and available resources for parents.

Free and all are welcome.
